FORMATION AND REGISTRATION OF COMPANIES

A limited liability company is the most common form of business entity in Malta. It may have the status of a public or private company.

A limited liability company is validly constituted in accordance with the Companies Act once a memorandum of association is entered into and subscribed by at least two persons and a certificate of registration is issued in respect thereof by the Registrar of Companies.

PRIVATE OR PUBLIC COMPANY

A private company is a company that must, by its memorandum or articles:

- a) restrict the right to transfer its shares;
- b) limit the number of members to fifty; and
- c) prohibit any invitation to the public to subscribe for any shares or debentures of the company.

A public company is a company which does not qualify as a private company. A public company may offer shares or debentures to the public but it may not issue any form of application for its shares or debentures unless the company is registered and the issue is accompanied by a prospectus.

MEMORANDUM AND ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION

The memorandum of association of every company shall contain the following information:

- (a) whether the company is a public company or a private company;
- (b) the name and residence of each of the subscribers thereto;
- (c) the name of the company;
- (d) the company's registered office in Malta;
- (e) the objects of the company;
- (f) the amount of share capital with which the company proposes to be registered (also referred to as the authorised capital), the division thereof into shares of a fixed amount, the number of shares taken up by each of the subscribers and the amount paid up in respect of each share and, where the share capital is divided into different classes of shares, the rights attaching to the shares of each class;
- (g) the number of the directors, the name and residence of the first directors and, where any of the directors is a body corporate, the name and registered or principal office of the body corporate; the manner in which the representation of the company is to be exercised, and the name of the first person or persons vested with such representation;
- (h) the name and residence of the first company secretary or secretaries;
- (i) the period, if any, fixed for the duration of the company; and
- (j) in respect of each shareholder, director and company secretary, the number of an official identification document should also be given.

In the case of a public company, an additional document shall be annexed to the memorandum providing:

- (a) the total amount or an estimate of all the costs payable by the company or chargeable to it by reason of its formation up to the time it is authorised to commence business, and of all the costs relating to transactions leading to such authorisation; and

- (b) a description of any special advantage granted, prior to the time the company is authorized to commence business, to anyone who has taken part in the formation of the company or in transactions leading to such authorisation.

The memorandum of association may be accompanied by the articles of association, which is a document which prescribes the internal regulations of the company.

If articles of association are not registered, it is assumed that the model articles of association found in the First Schedule to the Companies Act have been adopted.

The memorandum and articles, if any, must be delivered to the Registrar of Companies who, being satisfied that all the requirements of law have been complied with, shall register them. A company comes into existence from the date of registration indicated in its Certificate of Registration.

WHO MAY INCORPORATE

A limited liability company may be registered by the shareholders or their authorised agent. A local firm of lawyers, accountants or consultants is normally engaged to carry out all necessary formalities. Subscribers may be individuals or corporate entities. The shares of a company may also be held by a trustee, who is duly authorised in accordance with Maltese Law.

TIME REQUIRED FOR INCORPORATION

The length of time to incorporate a company depends on the type of company being incorporated and on whether all information and documentation is available and in order. Once the Registrar has all necessary documentation and information, the process may take from as little as 24 hours.

REGISTERED OFFICE

Every company registered in Malta must have a registered office in Malta. This may be at the office of a firm of lawyers, accountants or other providers of corporate services. Any changes to the company's registered office must be notified to the Registrar of Companies.

OBJECTS

The Memorandum of Association must specify the objects for which the company is set up. The objects may not be simply stated to be any lawful purpose or trade in general.

CAPITAL REQUIREMENTS

The minimum authorised share capital of a public company is EUR 46,587.47. In the case of a private company, the minimum authorised share capital is EUR 1,164.69. The authorised share capital shall be subscribed by at least two persons.

Where the authorised share capital is equal to the minimum stipulated by law, as aforesaid, it must be fully subscribed in the memorandum. Where it exceeds such minimum, at least that minimum shall be subscribed in the memorandum.

In the case of a public company, not less than 25%, and in the case of a private company, not less than 20%, of the nominal value of each share taken up shall be paid up on the signing of the memorandum.

PRIVATE EXEMPT COMPANIES

A private company may have the status of an exempt company, and qualify for certain advantages if the following conditions are contained in its memorandum or articles of association:

- (a) the number of persons holding debentures of the company is not more than 50; and
- (b) no body corporate is the holder of, or has any interest in, any shares or debentures of the company or is a director of the company, and neither the company nor any of the directors is party to an arrangement whereby the policy of the company is capable of being determined by persons other than the directors, members or debenture holders thereof.

SHAREHOLDING

The maximum number of shareholders for a private company is fifty, whereas there is no maximum number of shareholders in the case of a public company.

The minimum number of shareholders is normally two; however a “single member company” may also be registered under the Companies Act. A single member company is a private limited liability company, which qualifies as an exempt company and which is incorporated with one member or whose membership is reduced to one person after incorporation. In the case of a single member company, the Memorandum of Association should indicate the main trading activity of the company.

DIRECTORS AND COMPANY SECRETARY

Every public company must have at least two directors whereas every private company must have at least one director.

Every company must have a company secretary. No company may have:

- a) as company secretary its sole director unless the company is a private exempt company.
- b) as sole director of the company a body corporate, the sole director of which is company secretary to the company.

It shall be the duty of the directors of a company to take all reasonable steps to ensure that the company secretary is an individual who appears to them to have the requisite knowledge and experience to discharge the functions of company secretary. The law does not require that the company secretary be resident in Malta.
